Synopsis: Sex Magic for the Bar Mitzvah Boy

Sex Magic or Hieros Gamos is the practice of using sexuality as a path into spirituality that works because of how evolutionary biology, quantum mechanics and neurobiology shape human reality.

Adolescent males are at a particular developmental stage that is the last psychological stage before the ego of patriarchal society is developed. Sex Magic for the Bar Mitzvah Boy is written for 13 year old boys to take a different developmental path than the one that results in “might makes right”, and “men dominate women and nature”.

The path to develop ejaculatory control and to integrate testosterone and oxytocin in the brain is presented in easily understood language. This path is the union of meditation and sexuality.

By practicing these simple techniques it is suggested that the proclivity to violence under the patriarchal ego state can be avoided as testosterone, oxytocin and endorphins are chosen through behavior rather than testosterone, adrenaline and cortisol.

The concept of Elohim as Divinity that is plural, masculine and feminine, rather than the singular and male aspect of God is introduced and its significance explained.

The idea of being your own soul mate through integration of the Elohim with your own ego is presented as well. The idea being that such a man has taken control of his own development and will not need another person to complete them.

Such an integrated person will naturally share the love of the universe with others. The Beloved Bar Mitzvah Boy will learn how to share the loving touch of oxytocin touch with others and with himself.

The unifying aspect of the prayer/mantra for Divine Union and Orgasm is the integrating and unifying element in the story.
